Q: How to update SQL Database ASP.NET C# in real time when new data arrives? I've seen a bunch of posts about updating a database from an ASP.NET Website, but I can't find any that will reflect new data in real time, as in, the ASP.NET site will update the database and not the other way around. Here is the SQL syntax for this project: CREATE TABLE [dbo].[Items] ([ItemID] INT IDENTITY (1, 1) NOT NULL, [Description] VARCHAR (50) NOT NULL, [Price] DECIMAL (18, 4) NOT NULL, CONSTRAINT [PK_Items] PRIMARY KEY CLUSTERED ([ItemID] ASC)); Also, the main table in this example is an Items table that stores information about products.

A: There are two solutions. One is to set it as a Background process that runs every minute/hour/whatever and polls the database for changes, and then updates the database. The other solution is to update the database as soon as the information changes, and then refresh the information. If you choose to use this method, you may find the BeginExecuteReader method of the Command class helpful. On this site you'll find some documentation on using the execute reader.
